- When finished, click Submit. The order response is sent to the buyer and its status is updated in your inbox.

6. Order status

The table shows the possible statuses of an order:

STATUS	ORDER HAS BEEN
NEW	...received.
PENDING	...revision requested.
OPENED	...opened and a response created.
ACCEPTED	...accepted by you.
REJECTED	...rejected by you.
EXPIRED	...past response due date & cannot be actioned.
PAST DUE	...expired because the supplier didn't respond by the due date. A proposal can still be sent for an RFP with this status.

5. Respond to an order

- You can send your response to a buyer's order with a message. On the Order page, click Respond and the response window will load.

* You can only respond to orders that have been sent to you. If Respond isn't shown, the order is not assigned for your response.

- Select Accept Order or Reject Order from the Respond drop-down list and provide the needed information. Boxes highlighted in blue require a response.

7. Revising an order

You can revise an order that you have responded to by accepting or rejecting it and then returning it to the buyer. The revision can be initiated by yourself or through a revision request from the buyer.

On the Orders page, click Revise to make the order editable and the Send and Save buttons available:

- Make the required changes. Your amendments will be highlighted in purple as well as the summary section.
- Once your changes are complete, click Send. The Send order dialogue will display.
- Enter your message in the dialogue and click Submit to send the revision. The order revision will be sent and its status updated in your inbox.

Revised orders may have the following statuses:

STATUS	DESCRIPTION
ACCEPTED (WITH FLAG)	Accepted order has a buyer requested revision.
REJECTED (WITH FLAG)	Rejected order has a buyer requested revision.
REV PENDING	Your revised order has been saved, but not submitted.
REV RETURNED	Buyer has returned with a comment.
REV SENT	Your revised order has been sent.
REVISION OPENED	Your revised order has been opened.

- You can only see the most recent order version. Any changed data will be highlighted in purple.

8. Order versioning

- As part of the negotiation process with the buyer, each change sent from the buyer creates a new major version of the order.
- The order's major version number identifies the order for each campaign. Every time you create a new revision for an order, the order's minor version is updated.
 - For example, R0.01, R0.02, and then R0.03.
